

Make Believe

The "make believe" sort of advertising invariably reflects discredit on the merchant who follows it.

Recently some of Ogden's butchers have been following such methods. If these advertisers could hear the uncomplimentary remarks about themselves by people who see our prices, they would know that "make believe," "bait offers" and such tactics do not pay in the end.

The one thing that goes farther to make our stores popular, wherever located, is our method of "no baits," no deception or false claims. Our patrons soon learn they can depend on Skaggs'. That no matter what other butchers or grocers claim, they find it advantageous to buy all foods here.

Visit our stores and markets and you too will be convinced.

Denies He's 'Limping Burglar' Wanted Here

In the arrest of Joseph Silverman, police believe they have solved the mystery of the "limping burglar" who, M. B. Spilbury of 1640 Hudson avenue, said he shot at early Tuesday morning. Spilbury was of the opinion that he had wounded the man because the intruder limped as he fled. Silverman, partially paralyzed and who walks with a decided limp, was arrested at an early hour Wednesday at a vacant house at Cross street and Grant avenue. He claimed to have crawled through a window into the house at 8 o'clock the preceding evening, to find a place to sleep. The arrest took place at 4:40 o'clock, the officers having investigated immediately upon receiving a report from a woman who said she saw a man crawl in the window. Silverman pleaded not guilty to a charge of burglary in city court this morning, but was found guilty by Judge D. R. Roberts. He was sentenced to 10 or the equivalent. The defendant denied that he was the man who limped the screen off the Spilbury home.

SEVEN STARS IN 'MAMMA'S AFFAIR'

Character Impersonation in Comedy of an Exceptionally High Order

There are seven characters to the three act comedy, "Mamma's Affair," which was presented at the Orpheum theatre last night and all seven parts were played by stars. Furthermore the play was one in which each star could shine brilliantly and they did. Consequently the spectators enjoyed the evening to the utmost. The play tells the story of a pretty little blonde girl who has been blind white through loving attentions paid a buxom mother who "enjoys" poor health and demands a maximum of attention, how the daughter has become engaged to an anaemic spoiled child, son of the hypochondriac's best friend and how a wise physician steps in, observes how the girl is being crushed by the characters and personalities of the mother, sweetest and mother in law to be. Then the story winds up when the girl falls in love with the doctor, the doctor falls in love with the girl and everything ends lovingly with the assistance of the doctor's housekeeper.

Ida St. Leon plays the part of Eva Orrin, the loving daughter who was wearing the young life away through the exactions of a thoughtless mother. She is no stranger to Ogden playgoers and her work was much enjoyed. The part of Robert Edson, whose abilities as an actor need not be enlarged upon here. His easy stage presence and naturalness brought him much applause.

Then there was Amelia Bingham, another famous actress who played the part of the doctor's housekeeper with great charm. Associated Press dispatches today said she had been designated as one of the women speakers for the Republican party by Chicago headquarters. She should make many enemies.

The difficult role of Mrs. Orrin, given to emotional spells was played by Effie Shannon. Her work was so cleverly done that everybody in the audience thought it would be great relief if he or she could shake Mrs. Orrin into insensibility. There was another tragic, gloom-bringing mother of the girl's sweetheart, Katherine Kneled invested this part with a distinctive atmosphere. George LeGuere played the part of Henry Marchant and he succeeded in making it all that part allowed.

Many good laughs were provoked by the lines read by Little Billy, a midket who played the part of Tommy Hooper a bell boy. His work was of a high order.

Tourist travel to Yellowstone National park is heavier this season than in any other two previous seasons, according to Sidney Spencer, government representative of the park, who was in Ogden today for a short time en route to Colorado. "Thousands of visitors have toured the park this far this season and from all indications all previous records will be shattered before the fall season," said Spencer.

"To travel in particular is heavier than in any other two previous years in the history of the park. Special trains arrive daily at both the east and west entrances of the park, tourists from all sections of the United States paying the park a visit."

KEEN INTEREST IN NET MATCHES

Titely Wins First and Final Sets in Game With Waugh

Keen competition enlivened games on the courts of the Ogden tennis club last night when the third set of games were played. In the singles match between Waugh and Titely was the feature, both players showing a world of class, three sets being necessary to decide the winner. Titely won the first set 7-5, but lost the second set 4-6, coming back strong and winning the final set 6-4. This match kept both players on their toes throughout and had the many spectators rooting for their favorites.

H. Titely encountered a tiger in Fitzgerald's winning after keen competition in three sets, the scores being 7-5, 1-6, 11-9. This match was the longest of the day's play and created excitement galore. In the final men's singles match of the day Latimer won from Moech in straight sets, the scores being 6-3 and 6-4.

In the men's doubles but one contest was played, the Tufts-Hendershot team winning after a battle from the Peterson-Adams team by scores of 6-4, 4-6 and 6-4. Latimer-Whitely won from Smith-Moech by default while Christensen and partner defaulted to Emley-Hess. In the ladies' singles no matches were played. Angeline Foutz won from Helen Hunter by default.

In the men's doubles the following matches will be played this evening: Emley-Hess against Hinesley and partner; Moech-Johnston against Latimer-Whitely; Jensen-Waugh against Jefferies-Harris and Tufts-Hendershot against H. Titely and J. Titely. In the men's singles Latimer and Johnston are the only players scheduled to clash this evening. In the ladies' singles Naudine Foutz will vie for honors with Mary Jones while Gerta Woodruff will clash with Mrs. John Latimer.

The play thus far has created more interest than ever in Ogden, according to Arch Moech, chairman of the tournament committee. The singles title for the men will in all probability see Harris and Johnston fighting five days in the city jail, continued the judge unmoved by Cross's outburst.

Cross was arrested on a charge of operating his automobile without a tag. He was arrested at the Ogden river bridge. He testified that the tag had been lighted before he started on a ride and that to his knowledge, had not ceased to function. Although Cross raised strenuous objections to paying the fine he was given the alternative of paying or staying and finally dug up.
